THE ARCH—Campus Landmark—
To Be Relocated

Dear Alumni:

Dr. Poston

Have you been trying to think of something you could do for Gardner-Webb College? If so, there are two things you can do that will be of great help to the college and to the students of the future.

First, you can help us enlist the type of student we need at Gardner-Webb. We would like to have the privilege of working with the sons and daughters of our alumni. Too, we would like to enlist other students who desire a college education within a genuine Christian atmosphere. Many students feel that they cannot pay the difference in tuition costs between Gardner-Webb and some state-supported college. If you would bring or send such students to us, we would show them that the overall cost is about the same. Too, we would be happy to advise them as to ways and means of financing their college education. A little help from you could be the cause of some student's entering college.

Second, a gift from you to the Alumni Endowment Program would be a step toward helping us become a four-year college. After one year of the Alumni Endowment Program we have received $355 for the fund, and $5,000 from an alumnus for the general fund. Your help is greatly needed to make this program a success.

The Alumni Association voted to purchase tables for our Conference Room and to pay the cost of moving the arch. Thanks from the deep of our hearts.

Come to see us soon and visit the campus.

Sincerely yours,

Construction Begins On Dorm

The $152,500 contract for the construction of a 100-bed men's dormitory went to A. A. Ramsey and Sons, Inc., of Shelby, in mid-March. Construction began immediately thereafter, with the schedule calling for its completion in time for use by the opening of school in September.

The dormitory is located in the southwestern area of the campus adjacent to the Physical Education Building and opposite the new Science Building. Construction is of brick and block, making it fireproof. It will be three stories high with electric heat controlled in each room.

The addition of this extra space will give opportunity for a better balance between men and women students. Presently there are about twice as many men students on campus as there are women.

Graduate Courses Offered By A.S.T.C.

Graduate courses in library science and education, offered by Appalachian State Teachers College, were taught at Gardner-Webb during the spring semester. These courses were credited to teachers, librarians, and others who were working toward their master's degree or seeking to renew their teaching certificates.

Arrangements for the courses were worked out by Dr. James E. Stone, Director of Extension Service for A. S. T. C., and Dr. Eugene M. Keebler, Dean of G-W, who emphasized that this was another effort of the college to be of service to the people of the area.

Four Special Citations Awarded At Commencement

Four people were awarded "Special Citations" by Gardner-Webb at the recent graduation exercises. In presenting the citations, Dr. E. Eugene Poston, '43 President, said this was a "first" for the college and that they were equal to an honorary doctor's degree by a four-year college. He said they were "given for outstanding service in the field of Christian higher education."

Those honored were the Rev. J. R. Cantrell, '19, of Boiling Springs, Charles I. Dover and Mrs. Rush Stroup of Shelby, and A. T. Withrow of Charlotte.

Cantrell served as president of Boiling Springs Junior College from 1939 to 1943, when the name of the institution was changed to Gardner-Webb College. He has taught Bible at the college and has maintained an interest in it and promoted its work everywhere. During his term as president he labored to beautify the campus and to improve the physical plant. At the time of a recent illness he was planning to work to raise money for the school without salary.

Dover has served the college as trustee for several terms and has been Chairman of the Board. With other members of his family, he contributed to the building of the Dover Memorial Library. Under his leadership the foremen of the Dover Mills contribute money yearly to purchase books for the Charles I. Dover Bookshelf of the library. He has been instrumental in establishing a scholarship program whereby the tuition is paid for children of employees of the Dover textile group.

Mrs. Stroup is a long-time friend of Gardner-Webb and Christian higher education. She has served as trustee often and was chairman of the Board last year, the first woman to occupy the position at any N. C. Baptist College. Dormitories at both G-W and Mars Hill are named in her honor. She has helped scores of students attend college through loans and gifts. In 1957 she created a $5,000 loan fund at the college in memory of her husband. Mrs. Stroup was named Shelby's Woman of the Year in 1954.

Withrow, a native of Rutherford County, has served several terms as Trustee and as college treasurer. He has established a scholarship loan fund, and helped the college in many ways. Presently he is carrying a $100,000 life insurance policy with the college named as beneficiary.

MISS MILLER WEDS MR. MITCHELL

Miss Abbie Catherine Miller, '57, Assistant Professor of Music, and Harry Clyde Mitchell of Vidor, Tex., were married Sunday, June 16, at 6 p.m. at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Stephen Morrisett in Boiling Springs.

Mr. Morrisett performed the ceremony and also played the organ for a program of nuptial music. Mrs. Robert Gidney, Assistant Professor of Voice at the college, was soloist.

Miss Miller, head of the Fine Arts Dept., has taught piano at G-W since 1937. A native of Owensboro, Ky., she has the A.B. degree from Kentucky Wesleyan College and the B.Mus. and M.Mus. degrees from the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music.

Mitchell, also a native of Owensboro, attended Kentucky State College and the Business University of Bowling Green and has been a member of the faculty of both schools. He has been associated with DuPont and Olson Bros. Contractors in Houston, Tex. He is in the construction business in Vidor, where they will reside at 725 Lyndale Street.

The couple were honored on Saturday night after the wedding rehearsal with a cake-cutting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gidney in Shelby. Major and Mrs. Giles W. Vick, Jr., of Monroe were joint hosts. Mrs. Vick is the former Frances Cuthbertson, who taught at G-W from 1940-49.

Our Alumni President Speaks

Dear Alumni,

Mr. Padgett

Gardner-Webb has just completed one of its finest years in Christian Education. Record enrollment marked the year. Advancement was made in every phase of the school's training.

The Alumni Association held its annual banquet May 25. This meeting portrayed a fine spirit of enthusiasm and interest. Dr. Poston's report concerning the movement of the school in the direction of becoming a four-year college was well received.

John Roberts, '49 of Thomasville is the new President of the Alumni Association. He will be a fine leader for the coming year, and should give us good publicity for our activities because of his position in the state convention.

May I say that it has been an honor and a privilege to serve as your president for the past year. Mrs. Nancy A. Griffin, '53, has been most efficient in keeping the alumni activities before all of us throughout the year.

The growing Gardner-Webb family possesses a far-reaching strength and influence. Let us rededicate ourselves to the end that our school may continue to be the strong Christian power it has always been, while it continues to expand its ministry in both scope and effectiveness.

Sincerely yours,

A cursive signature of Wilson W. Padgett.

G-W Shares In Foundation Gift

Gardner-Webb's share in the 1962-63 division of funds from the North Carolina Foundation of Church-Related Colleges is $18,453.97. This is an increase of $512.20 over the previous year when the college received $17,941.77. The total amount received by G-W since becoming a member of the foundation is $96,818.59.

The division of the funds for this year was announced at the annual meeting of the Trustees held recently at Saint Andrews College at Laurinburg. Total gifts distributed by the Foundation since its inception amount to $2,573,541.51. This year 23 colleges shared in the distribution of $503,352.69, which was the highest total raised for any year.

The Foundation receives gifts from industry, business, and individuals. The college presidents are divided into teams and each team is assigned certain counties where they solicit funds from potential donors.

Funds received from this source are directed toward raising faculty salaries.

Student-Led Revival Held

The annual student-led revival, under the direction and sponsorship of the Baptist Student Union, was held April 1-5. The theme was "Saviour, Pilot Me," and the Biblical text was Isaiah 41:10.

Services were held at the 10:30 a. m. chapel hour on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday and at 6:30 each evening.

Student speakers were Dennis Heath, Winston - Salem; Ervin Houser, Kings Mountain; J. V. Buchanan, Mooresboro; Jerry Lethco, Gastonia; Bobby Deviney, Lawndale; Everett Thomas, Shelby; and Don Butler, Clover, S. C.

Both students and faculty felt this revival made a real spiritual impact on the campus and the community.

College Receives Dr. C. J. Black's Library

The private library of the late Dr. C. J. Black, evangelist and author, was a recent gift to the college's Dover Memorial Library. Miss Odessa Black, his daughter, of Bessemer City, made the presentation and characterized her father as a man who possessed a burning desire to see all young people become Christians and then to have an education. He wrote, "May these works of service and sacrifice go forth through the years to come to comfort, cheer, and to enliven those who must follow us."

President Poston received the gift and noted that the collection contains some volumes which will be placed in G-W's rare book collection. He also stated that "this collection, along with the R. C. Campbell collection, provides many valuable resource aids to ministers of this area that are not readily available short of a university."

Dr. Black, born at Croft, N. C., May 9, 1872, graduated from Huntersville High School, Erskine and Wake Forest Colleges. He served Baptist churches in Stanly, Union, Cleveland, and Gaston counties for more than 40 years.

Five College Officials Appeared On TV

Five G-W administrators and faculty members appeared on the "For Citizens of Tomorrow" program on WSPA-TV in February to discuss the "Preparation of the Male Student for College." The questions they discussed were: (1) When does preparation begin?; (2) What steps should the student take academically?; (3) What type college should the student attend?; and (4) What are the problems he will face?

Representing the college were Mrs. Dorothy Hamrick, '35, Registrar; Thomas J. McGraw, '49, Director of Development; Donald D. Moore, '53, Director of Counseling; Robert B. Isner, Dean of Students; and Hubert C. Dixon, '33, Associate Professor of Mathematics.

BOARD OF ADVISORS ORGANIZED

A Board of Advisors to "serve as expanded committees of the Board of Trustees" was organized on March 29 at a dinner meeting in the college cafeteria. The main speaker for the organizational meeting was Dr. Ivan Stafford, Director of Development at Montreat-Anderson College, who has had wide experience in this field. He served as Vice-President of Morris Harvey College in Virginia.

The Board is composed of 94 persons from various sections of the state who have agreed to serve in the capacity of advisor. "The function of the advisory board is to make suggestions to the appropriate committee of the Board of Trustees and to assist them in carrying out the recommendations and suggestions when approved by the Board of Trustees in such a way as to improve the service and function of the college."

At a luncheon at the college on May 25, the following were chosen to head the group in its first year: Carlos Young, Chairman; R. Patrick Spangler, Vice-Chairman; and Mrs. Paris Yelton, '24, Secretary. All are from Shelby.

The group was divided into nine committees plus the steering committee, which is composed of the general officers and the chairmen of the other committees. Chairmen and committees named were: Rev. M. O. Owens, Jr., Gastonia, Church Relations; Rev. Hoke Coon, Jr., Lexington, Tone and Character; J. R. Dover, III, '47, Shelby, Public Relations; G. Jack Vincent, Shelby, Library; O. P. Hamrick, '11, Boiling Springs, Memorials; F. O. Champion, Shelby, Finance; J. J. Tarlton, Rutherfordton, Curriculum; Leonard Lowe, Forest City, Scholarships; and John Z. McBrayer, '36, Mooresboro, Buildings and Grounds.

Plans are for the Board to meet twice yearly with the committees meeting more often at the call of their chairmen. College officials emphasized that the Board was formed by authority of the Board of Trustees, which is elected by the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina, and all final actions must be taken by them. Yet, this type of organization has been used successfully by other colleges and institutions. President Poston said he believes this group can be of great value in helping Gardner-Webb expand and move forward.

FROM MY SIDE

By R. W. Abrams

Mr. Abrams

Participation in this year's graduation program at Gardner-Webb, after several years of absence from the academic scene, gave me a number of impressions, which I should like to share with you.

1. Graduation from a Christian college has a plus quality about it. The emphasis on high ideals, quality standards, and Christian principles placed throughout the year is continued to the time of conferring of degrees. The atmosphere and spirit of the concluding activities are inspiring and challenging to all who share in them and assure the graduates that good will and best wishes follow them as they go forth to meet new challenges and new opportunities.

2. Graduates, their parents, other relatives, and friends feel a just pride in their accomplishments. This is true because of the sacrifices that have been made out of a sense of love, and because of the high standards of academic and moral excellence that have been achieved. Members of the administration, staff, and faculty find a sense of real reward for their efforts in the growth and advancement achieved by the graduates signified by this forward step.

3. Alumni who returned to the campus for the Alumni Banquet and other meetings received a real lift and thrill at being back again. Memories were revived. Friendships were renewed. Pride in the college was enlarged as they saw the evidences of growth and development. By their visit they came to feel even closer ties with the school and were glad to be products of its past and participants in its present and future. Once again the old adage was demonstrated that one who shares actively in the concerns of his heart and life is the one who receives most from them.

4. The college has a right to expect support from her sons and daughters, and they should expect to support their Alma Mater. To encourage this response, the 1963 graduates were voted into membership in the Alumni Association at the Alumni Banquet, as other classes have been before them. They were also guests at a Senior Breakfast on graduation day, and were admonished to remember Gardner-Webb as the college where they took their first step in Christian Higher Education. Perhaps it would be well for all of us to consider seriously our relationship to the college as alumni. We should "look to the rock from whence we were hewn" and actively support the college that has done so much for us.

5. There continues to be a place and a need for church-related Christian colleges like Gardner-Webb. We must maintain a healthy balance between state-supported and private and church-related institutions of higher learning. A recent prediction was made that by 1980 eighty per cent of all college students will be in state supported institutions and only twenty per cent will be in private and church-related schools. Is this the way things should be? I do not know, but we are trying to find out. Certainly we must find the proper balance. The true position we fill and the right answer we give may depend on you and your support.

If you have not been back to the campus recently, why not plan to return soon and see what impressions you receive. You might be surprised!

Sincerely yours,

R. W. Abrams

Harrill is a Wake Forest graduate with an A.B. degree in science and math. He holds the M.A. degree from U.N.C. in chemistry and physics. He has taught math and science in high school and served several years as a high school principal.

Mrs. Jolley, the former Cothenia Jones of Caroleen, is a graduate of Tri-High School, G-W, and Carson-Newman College. She holds the M.A. degree with a major in English, and Spec.Ed. degree from George Peabody College. Prior to beginning her teaching career at Caroleen Elementary School in 1953, she was educational director at the Concord Baptist Church and the Boiling Springs Baptist Church. She is active in the work of the college church.

Mrs. Joyce Barnette Culbreth is a graduate of Ellenboro High School and A.S.T.C. with a B.S. degree in business education. She has taught two years at Fallston High School and one year at Shelby High School. For a year she worked as bookkeeper for a Winston-Salem manufacturing firm.

Rev. James M. Wilder, Raleigh native, graduated from Wake Forest with the A.B. degree and from Southern Seminary, Louisville, with the Th.M. degree. He taught math at Clayton High School 1935-37. Presently he is an appraisal engineer for a Dayton, Ohio, company.

Phi Theta Kappa Taps Fourteen

In a chapel program emphasizing the three ideals of wisdom, aspiration, and purity, Phi Theta Kappa members tapped fourteen of their classmates for membership in the Lambda Omega Chapter of the National Honor Society. Students who met the good citizenship qualifications and scholastic standards from the top ten per cent of the student body were: Suzy Hedrick and David Washburn, Boiling Springs; Annie Dilling, Kings Mountain; William Biggerstaff, Louwanda Watson and Dorothy Pennington, Forest City; Sue Humphries and Alpha Spurlin, Cliffside; Mrs. Deanna Caldwell and Wallace Tyser, Jr., Gastonia; Diane Anderson, Jacksonville; Betty Richie, Mocksville; Clyde Buckner, Gaffney, S. C., and Richard Lineberry, Galax, Va.

The tapping of these students brought the active membership in the chapter to 34 for the school year.

1963 "Anchor" Dedicated To Professor Dixon

The 1963 edition of The Anchor, the college yearbook, was dedicated to Hubert C. Dixon, '33, Associate Professor of Mathematics and teacher at Gardner-Webb, who is in his twenty-eighth year of service.

The dedication was made at a chapel service by William and Carol Watterson of Shelby, co-editors of this year's book. Business manager was Nancy Self of Greensboro, assisted by Andrea Whisnant of Morganton. Lee Pickler of Valatie, N.Y., was photographer.

In making the presentation, Watterson emphasized the long service rendered to G-W by Mr. Dixon, who began teaching in 1935. His is the longest tenure of any faculty member, which makes him quite an authority on college history.

In 1936 he was made Dean of Men, serving until 1938 when he became Dean of the College. He was dean until 1942 when he entered the Navy, serving as an officer until discharged in 1945. He came back to resume the teaching of mathematics and now heads the department of mathematics and natural sciences.

The editors wrote in the dedication, "Every student admires certain characteristics in a teacher. Some of these are patience, kindness, understanding, and above all, a dedication and a sincerity toward his work. The teacher should be a devout Christian, seeking through his work to serve his pupils, his school, his country, and his God. We of the 1963 Anchor staff believe that all these and many other characteristics have been exhibited by Mr. H. C. Dixon, who is now in his twenty-eighth year of service at Gardner-Webb. For this reason we dedicate this 1963 Anchor to our professor and friend, Mr. Hubert C. Dixon."

Dixon is an active member of the Boiling Springs Baptist Church, where he has served as chairman of the deacons, and where he is now Sunday School superintendent. He is also active in the Boiling Springs Lions Club.

A native of Cleveland County, Dixon is a graduate of G-W and Wake Forest College, and holds the M.A. degree from U.N.C. He has done additional graduate work at Clemson and Florida State University.

He is married to the former Lucile Johnson, graduate of Meredith with a B.Mus. degree. She works as assistant to the registrar at G-W. They have one daughter, Jean, a student at Lattimore Junior High School.

The local pastors conferences approved the observance.

BULLDOGS WIN BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

Gardner-Webb's Bulldogs won the Western Carolinas Junior College basketball championship after finishing second with a 12-9 won and lost record in regular season play. Winning the tournament, held at Forest City, for the first conference title in their history, the Bulldogs beat Anderson 87-69, North Greenville 53-49, and Wingate 59-57.

The championship was the second of the year for head Coach Norman Harris, whose football team won the conference and Region Ten titles last fall.

Co-captains Mike Pearson of Gastonia and Ronnie Robinson of Belmont were named to the All-Conference and All-Tournament teams. Pearson was also voted the tournament's most valuable player. Robinson led the team in scoring with a 14.3 points per game average. Pearson was second best scorer with a 11.7 points per game average. Reggie High of Dallas was declared the best defensive player.

The baseball team had an 8-7 won and lost season record, with a 5-5 conference mark, which placed them in a tie for second place with Brevard.

Rick Bradley of Gastonia won the conference trophy for leading hitter with a .405 average, and Terry Byrd of Forest City received the leading fielder award. Clayton "Pee Wee" Chriswell was named

FROM OUR DEVELOPMENT DIRECTOR

Fellow Alumni:

The questions most frequently asked me concerning our Alma Mater have one central theme—is Gardner-Webb going to a four-year college? When? Almost without exception, every alumnus with whom I have talked has expressed a desire that it become a four-year institution. I am sure that you share with me a desire for Gardner-Webb to be the "best" whether the decision is to remain a two-year institution or expand to the four-year status. Ultimately, this decision rests with the Board of Trustees and rightly so.

Mr. McGraw

I am confident that when deliberations begin on this important question that they will listen to the alumni and their wishes. They will want to know if the alumni are interested and to what extent they can be counted on during this period of transition. They will want to know to what degree the alumni have supported the institution with their gifts over the years. In this year's alumni endowment program the total can be compared favorably with other institutions on this type of gift, but the total number of participants leaves much to be desired. It is erroneous to believe that small gifts do not mean much. I can assure you that one factor by which we are judged by others is the per cent of participation by our alumni in all types of giving. If you have not as yet sent in your gift this year, do it now, don't put it off.

Many do not care to give to endowment. You can "earmark" your gifts to any cause whether it be for the new dormitory, scholarships, loan funds, or current operational expenses. The important thing to you and to the college is that you participate to some degree. The more involved you become in Gardner-Webb the more you will appreciate what it is now doing and what it will be able to do in the future.

Come to see us soon.

Sincerely yours,

THE DEAN'S PAGE

It has been a fine year for Gardner-Webb academically. Seven hundred forty-three students came to Gardner-Webb during the regular college year. Of this number 75 attended evening classes. The Evening College in itself was born in the middle of our year and has great potential for the college. Continuing education is a realized need in our times. The reaffirming of accreditation by The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools came in December of last year. Already we have enrolled 138 students for the first session of the summer session. The nursing program has been serving Rutherford Hospital School of Nursing with real success. The In-Service Training program for the college administration and faculty has strengthened our academic objectives and has helped with the solving of curriculum problems. Several other ventures have proven worthy of the effort. They are:

The experimental classes with the longer period (75 minutes instead of the 55 minutes) have proven satisfactory and will lead the way for the proposed change to a 5-day-a-week schedule for next year.

The laboratory experiences in Psychology classes have proven helpful.

The A.S.T.C. program of advanced educational opportunities is just the beginning.

The addition of Geography to the next year's schedule for Education majors will help some of the 118 presently expecting to teach.

From the insights already gained, we should add courses in Education, Philosophy, Advanced Mathematics, Physics, Business Administration and other Natural Sciences. A move has been made toward further centralization of all student personnel records. This will afford many improvements for the student in academic areas. Serving the area has been the goal of all endeavors this year.

But what about the future? Several factors must be kept in mind. First, the postwar baby boom won't start pounding on the college doors until 1964. When this happens you will hear a larger, longer cry for more services. Gardner-Webb will meet these challenges.

But this calls for planning for more facilities, adequate support and better trained personnel. Adjustments and flexibility must characterize the efforts now in order to meet the needs "just-around-the-corner." If we respond with "vigor," we will find that Gardner-Webb will serve in an excellent way at the junior college level, but there is little reason why support can not be mustered for a senior college program, too. By 1967 a senior program can be a reality. This does not mean that the junior program will be cast aside, far from it; there will simply be an extension into larger areas of service. By 1970, Gardner-Webb could graduate more than 100 bachelors with at least seven different majors. When the constituency demands this service then they will provide for it. It is the firm conviction of this administrator that it will be provided.

Now a final word of "thanks." THANK YOU for the courtesies extended this office and to me personally this year. I shall soon be moving to Louisiana College, Pineville, La. If I can ever serve Gardner-Webb in any way please call upon me. It is a great college and has a prosperous future.

Dr. Keebler

Eugene M. Keebler

Dean Keebler Resigns

Dr. Eugene M. Keebler has resigned as dean of G-W to accept a similar position with Louisiana College, a four-year school at Pineville, La. He will leave June 30 and begin his new work Aug. 1.

ground as teacher and pastor. While at G-W he has served as interim pastor of the Caroleen Baptist Church and has filled various other pulpits.

In receiving his resignation, President Poston said, "As Dr. Keebler enters this enlarged field of Christian Education, the administration, faculty, and staff of Gardner-Webb College wish for him a successful and happy ministry."
